

Can the co-pilot locker be used for storage

What is a Command gear locker?

The Command gear locker is a heavy-duty, all-welded locker designed for military pilots. It is a unique storage solution for a pilot's flight related equipment and gear. Lyon ships the Command locker set up and ready to use. Both the Collegiate and Victory lockers can also be used as turnout gear lockers.

Why should you buy a military locker?

Military lockers from Lyon are a valuable investment for police officers. They offer a built-in bench seat, providing a place to sit while getting ready. You can have an electrician run wires to it so that you can charge phones, computers, and other devices. These lockers are designed to help you keep everything organized. You will have enough room to easily store your work gear as well as your civilian clothes.

Which turnout gear lockers are the best?

Both the Collegiate and Victory lockers are ideal for use as turnout gear lockers. They offer ventilated sides and an open front, which allows fire gear to get extra air flow and makes it quick and easy to suit up in an emergency. Both the Victory and Collegiate lockers come equipped with a shelf, a coat rod, and 4 coat hooks.

What happens if a rifle is not stored in a locker?

Rifles not stored in approved rifle racks or lockers will be returned to the troop armory upon entering port. When troop arms and ammunition exceed the capacity of troop armory and magazine spaces, maximum use will be made of unused space in the ship's armory and magazines, respectively.

What is a law enforcement equipment locker?

A law enforcement equipment locker is a customizable storage solution that meets the needs of all law enforcement personnel. It includes options such as a boot tray, belt hooks, vest storage, and a security compartment. The built-in bench seat provides an officer or agent with a place to sit while getting ready.

What type of storage cabinet is best for law enforcement?

The Valor police locker from Lyon is perfect for all levels of law enforcement and has customizable parts to maximize the storage space. This military grade cabinet will meet the toughest of storage needs.
